Sparks Set Fire to the Dining Room at 5:30 a. m.

Many of the Boarders Forced to Escape in Night Clothes—Fully Insured.

SOME OTHER SMALLER FIRES

The boarding house of Mrs. Kate Craig, at Sixth and Monroe streets, was partially burned this morning about 6 o'clock with a loss of about $1,000 fully covered by insurance, both on the house and furnishings.

The fire originated apparently from a spark from the kitchen chimney and the roof of the dining room portion of the building was a mass of flames before the blaze was discovered. The fire department was summoned and succeeded in saving the main portion of the building, but the dining room and two or three sleeping rooms were totally ruined. The roof was completely burned off and the furnishings downstairs damaged or ruined by water.

The fire created great excitement, especially among the guests. Some of them escaped in scanty attire until the danger was over.

Captain Phillips and son occupied one of the rooms, Mr. and Mrs. Pieper another, and Messrs. T. L. Baker and Fred Smith another, of three rooms burned, and Mrs. Craig's room was damaged badly.

The fire was burning briskly over Mrs. Pieper's head when she awoke.

The dining room is almost totally destroyed, but Mrs. Craig is serving meals as usual today, the kitchen being unharmed, and hopes to have the damage repaired as soon as possible.

Another portion of the house is being used as a dining room until a new one can be built.

The house is owned by the Puryear estate and the loss is covered by insurance. The furnishings were also well insured, hence the actual loss after the insurance is paid will not be great.

While the firemen were fighting the fire one section of hose was run over by a Trimble street car and out in two. The water had to be turned off and the hose uncoupled and a new section added.

Yesterday morning shortly after 8 o'clock a cabbage car at the I. C. depot here caught fire but was extinguished before the fire had gained any headway. Some waste and rubbish had been left near the stove and had ignited in some way. Mr. W. A. Carter, coach inspector, saw the smoke and with a small hose used in washing coaches, extinguished the blaze without any damage.

Fire originating from a defective flue burned the small frame residence of A. Langley, in Littleville, Saturday afternoon late. The furniture was saved. Loss about $400.

The board adjourned to meet December 23, but Trustee Weille will try to have it meet sooner.

My Breath.

Shortness of Breath Is One of the Commonest Signs of Heart Disease.

Notwithstanding what many physicians say, heart disease can be cured. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure has permanently restored to health many thousands who had found no relief in the medicines (allopathic or homoeopathic) of regular practicing physicians. It has proved itself unique in the history of medicine, by being so uniformly successful in curing those diseases.

Nearly always, one of the first signs of trouble is shortness of breath. Whether it comes as a result of walking or running up stairs, or of other exercises, if the heart is unable to meet this extra demand upon its pumping powers—there is something wrong with it.

The very best thing you can do, is to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. It will go to the foundation of the trouble, and make a permanent cure by strengthening and renewing the nerves. "I know that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is a great remedy. For a number of years I suffered from shortness of breath, smothering spells, and pains in my left side. For months at a time I would be unable to lie on my left side, and if I lay flat on my back would nearly smother. A friend advised using Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which I did with good results. I began to improve at once, and after taking several bottles of the heart cure the pains in my side and other symptoms vanished. I am now entirely well. All those dreadful smothering spells are a thing of the past."—P. P. BRACK, Middletown, O.

KENTUCKIAN'S DEED

Shoots His Wife, His Child and Himself.

H. Clay King Is Dying in Prison—Wentz Reported Found at Last.

STORE WRECKED BY POWDER

KENTUCKIANS' DEADLY AIM.

Carrthersville, Mo., Dec. 7.—P. M. Norther, a farmer, living at Cannady's Switch, five miles south of here, shot his wife and daughter, then pointing the smoking revolver to his own breast, fired it and fell dying across a bed.

His wife, Katie, and 15 year old daughter, though shot seriously, will live.

It is the old story of jealousy.

Mrs. Kate Norther had been separated from her husband about two months. She took her four children and moved to a cabin some 50 yards from her husband's home. Yesterday evening one of the little girls saw her father approaching the cabin and informed her mother.

"I thought my husband was coming for trouble," said the wounded woman as she told the story.

"As soon as he entered the door," said she, "he began to fire."

"My little daughter tried to save me and was shot through the arm."

"I felt a bullet pass through my hip and fell to the floor."

"My husband stood over me, and looking me in the face, asked: 'Have I killed you?'"

"I said, 'Yes,' for I thought I was dying."

"Then my husband fell across the bed and shot himself through the right breast."

A few neighbors arrived before the man died. He was struggling in death and murmuring something about a letter he had left in a trunk.

The trunk was opened and the letter found.

It was a brief farewell to his family. He said he had borne his troubles as long as he could and had decided to kill himself and wife. He requested his property be divided between his children, showing that he did not intend to kill them.

The Norther came here from Kentucky several years ago.

One of the Wentz attorneys, when asked about the matter tonight, would not deny that Wentz had been found, but said that it might be so.

Black, says there is not one chance in ten thousand for his recovery. He had an attack of heart failure Saturday and for a while it was believed he was dying, but he rallied. As soon as Mr. King's serious illness began, his wife and three daughters were summoned and they have been with him since. King is spending life sentence for the murder of David H. Poston of the Memphis bar.

MILLIONAIRE'S POOR STOMACH.

The worn out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what you station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. For sale by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

RHEUMATISM

AN INDESCRIBABLE TORTURE

Because Rheumatism sometimes comes on suddenly it doesn't prove that it is a chance disease or one due to accidental causes. It takes time for it to develop, and is at work in the system long before any symptoms are felt. The blood is the first point of attack, and the poisonous acids that cause the aches and pains are then distributed through the circulation to different parts of the system, and settle in joints, muscles and nerves; and when the system is in this condition it needs only some exciting cause like exposure to night air, damp, chilly weather, or the cold, bleak winds of winter, to arouse the slumbering poisons and bring on Rheumatism. The severity of the attack depends upon the amount of acid in the blood and the quantity of acid matter in the joints and muscles. Some people are almost helpless from the first, while others have occasional spells or are uncomfortable, restless, nervous and half sick all the time from the nagging aches and pains. Rheumatism is a disagreeable companion even in its mildest form. It grows worse as we grow older, and frequently stiffens the joints, draws the muscles out of shape and breaks down the nervous system. A disease that originates in the blood, as Rheumatism does, cannot be cured with external remedies like liniments and plasters; such things scatter the pains or drive them to some other part of the body, but do not touch the disease or improve the condition of the blood. The thin acid blood must be restored to its normal purity and strength, so that all poisonous substances may be carried out of the system, and no medicine accomplishes this in so short a time as S. S. S., which not only neutralizes the acids and counteracts the poisons, but builds up the general health at the same time.

RHEUMATISM IN ELBOWS, WRISTS AND KNEES.

Urbana, Ohio, Aug. 25, 1903. Last winter I had a severe attack of Rheumatism. It started in the right elbow, and from there to my wrists; the right wrist was the worse. It became swollen and extremely painful. My left knee joint was the next place to be attacked. It became swollen and of course painful. The next point to be affected was the hip and ankle, which gave me much trouble. I was barely able to get about for some time. I was under treatment of a physician for awhile, but getting no better I began S. S. S., and after taking it for some time I was entirely relieved of the Rheumatism. All swelling and soreness disappeared. I consider S. S. S. an excellent remedy for Rheumatism and all troubles having their origin in the blood.

ONE MILLION A DAY THE RAILROAD NEWS

This is Value of the Cotton Crops This Year.

The Southern Farmers Are in an Unusually Prosperous Condition.

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES

Two million of dollars a day is what Uncle Sam received in October for the raw cotton he exported. This is an enormous result from a single agricultural product, even for a country of such enormous results as the United States, says the New York Sun. By the records of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, the comparison with prior Octobers is:

1900	$ 6,474,437
1901	46,000,000
1902	42,000,000
1903	60,283,412

The quantity exported this October was 594,540,872 pounds at an average price of 10.10 per pound.

It must not be assumed that we are getting $3,000,000 a day the year round for our raw cotton exports, but we are getting more than $1,000,000 a day, Sundays and holidays included, for the cotton and its products which we send abroad. In the fiscal year 1903 this total export was $376,759,645.

These figures give us $1,000,000 a day for the full fiscal year and $11,757,645 over. Even for raw cotton alone gathered in $316,180,429, or over $1,000,000 each business day in 1903 fiscal year. For the twelve months ended October, 1903, the showing is still better, namely, $320,406,314. These results are larger than in any preceding year in the history of our country.

It is probable that the Southern people have this year more money to spend than they have had at any time since the war.

This increase in purchasing power will result in a material and permanent advance for the Southern states. It will lead to an improvement in southern agricultural methods, to the development of new sources of wealth, and will add materially to the profit on future crops. The world's demand for cotton has gone beyond the world's supply, and the South will now prepare to meet that demand by increasing the production of cotton, at the same time increasing the production of other crops, having the cotton crop more and more of a money crop in the South.

D. 1903 before said court at Louisville, said district, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, or as near thereto as practicable; and that notice thereof be published one time in the Paducah Sun, a newspaper printed in said district, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

GOOD ORDER ABOUT DEPOT

The Illinois Central depot employees are glad of the "dry Sundays" inaugurated, and one said today: "Yesterday we had no drunkenness about the depot and everything was as quiet and orderly as we could wish it. Every Sunday there are generally many drunken boys about the depot cutting up some of them from the small surrounding towns, who come here regularly on Sunday for the sole purpose of getting drunk. Sometimes they cut up, are arrested and miss their train. We do not like to have them arrested and the only possible solution to the matter is in the closing of the saloon. This was done yesterday and the depot was as quiet and orderly as I have ever seen it."

The substitution of white porters for negroes on sleeping and parlor cars is a change announced by the Union Pacific railroad. The change is to be made gradually, and if the white substitutes make good the negro will pass as a porter on all the Harriman transcontinental lines. Other systems are said to be interested in the innovation inaugurated by the Harriman lines, and if it proves satisfactory they will supplant negro porters with white men. It is suggested in this connection that tipping rates may be reduced as one important result of the change. At any rate the Harriman experiment is important and may mean a revolution in sleeping and parlor car service.

Mr. A. Q. Pearce, traveling passenger agent of the I. C., of Memphis, Tenn., was in the city this morning on business. He was here to look after the soldier boys who went to Frankfort to attend the inauguration ceremonies. There were five special coaches of soldiers, each company being assigned to a special coach. The Mayfield and Greenville companies went on the morning train No. 122, but the Paducah, Clinton and Morganfield companies went on the noon train No. 102. Mr. Evan Prosser, traveling passenger agent for the H. and O. road was in the city on business this morning and accompanied by Pearce to Louisville with the special coaches.

The Tennessee Central railway Saturday began receiving freight for Clarksville and intermediate points. It was also announced that trains would be running through to Hopkinsville by December 15. Traffic arrangements with the Illinois Central have been made, so it is said. President Chapman declined today to say if the rumors that if the road had or would be sold to the Illinois Central were true.

It is reported in railroad circles in Omaha that the Illinois Central is preparing to build into Des Moines and that actual construction will commence in the spring. The new line will pass through Grundy Center, Marshalltown and the northwestern corner of Jasper county into Polk county and into Des Moines, and will be about 85 miles long.

A branch office in the yard service has been located in the shop yards of the local I. C. and trains are sent out of the shop yards during the busy season and rush of business. This office will be maintained only during the rush, however. It is in charge of the assistant yardmaster. Trains have been dispatched out of this office for several days now.

The employees at the depot were treated to another surprise this morning when the train from St. Louis arrived at 7:35 o'clock. This train is generally from one to three hours late but of late has been making better time. Last week it came in twice on time.

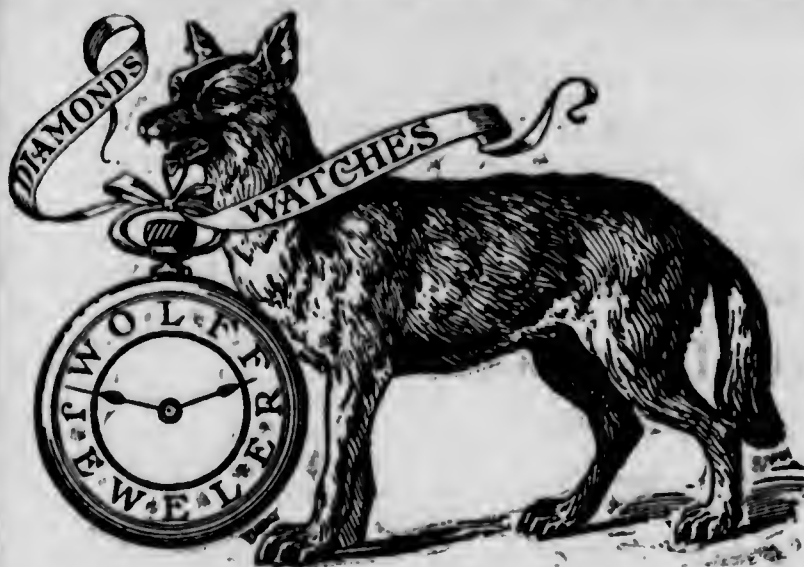

Frank Lovelace, an employe of the I. C. road on the Cairo extension, had his left arm badly bruised Saturday by a portion of the steam shovel falling on him. He was assisting in loading the shovel onto a car when it slipped and caught his arm. He is at the hospital here.

The right hand of Aaron Flowers, an employe of the Illinois Central at Grand Rivers, was amputated at the I. C. hospital here Saturday after-

The I. C. pay car will arrive in Paducah a little early this month. The notice of its arrival was received yesterday. It will come on the 18th from Princeton, paying off here first and then going to Cairo over the new extension.

Mr. Clarence Kewles, superintendent of water supply of the Louisville division of the I. C., went to Gravel Switch this morning on business.

Mr. H. U. Wallace, chief engineer of the I. C., passed through the city last night en route to Fulton from Louisville.

Mr. O. W. Woolbridge, the I. C. patternmaker, has gone to Memphis on business.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

CATHOLIC LADIES CLEARED OVER A THOUSAND DOLLARS.

The ladies of the Catholic church realized a profit of $1,029.50 from their bazaar Thursday, Friday and Saturday night. It was one of the most profitable bazaars in the history of Paducah, and will be applied to the church debt, which will leave about $600, still due.

Last year the ladies realized $1053 from their bazaar. This year everything was sold, and at supper Saturday night 162 people were served.

All the ladies of the church assisted in making the bazaar a success, but the society under whose auspices it was given has for its officers. President Mrs. A. R. Grouse; secretary, Miss Carrie Glauber; treasurer, Miss Lizzie Sinnott.

The prizes given away during the three days were won as follows:

Diamond ring—M. Haggarty.
Carving set—Tommie Overstreet.
Single barrel shotgun—F. T. Bradley.
Bisque doll—Miss Ella Bryant.

Two center pieces—Joe O'Loughlin and Miss Katherine Donovan.

Drawn work napkins—Mrs. Keithley.

Fern—George Detzel.
Hand-painted plate—Joe Arts.
Shoes—Ed Englert.

The prize was won by guessing how many toothpicks were in a glass jar. There were 817 and Mr. Englert guessed 818.

The ladies desire to thank the following: W. H. Riecke for the use of his building; Rhodes Burford & Co.,

for ranges, chairs and tables; Foreman Brothers, Paducah Gas and Electric company and the Paducah City railway for lights; the press and public in general.

NEW ERA DAWNS.

Rev. Enos Nuttall, archbishop of the West Indies, a keen and impartial observer, predicts that the time is not far distant when the United States will exercise sovereignty in South America. It seems to be generally conceded in tropical America that a new era has dawned in the history of our neighbors, and it can anger only well for them.

Bishop Nuttall is reputed to be the leader of conservative English thought in the tropical countries. His experience extends over forty years and his standing, discrimination and fairness give his utterances a weight and authority of which perhaps no other man in that region could boast.

Among other things he says:
"I do not pretend to know the exact bearing of the historical policy of the United States on the present situation on the isthmus of Panama; but I do know that the great bulk of the English speaking people in South and Central America, as well as in the West Indies, view with satisfaction the presence of the United States on the isthmus in the role of protector to any movement that will make the digging of the canal feasible.

"Of greater importance to all our interests, even than the digging of the canal, is the new American policy revealed and probably created by the events that have just transpired on the isthmus—the policy that assures us that the United States hereafter will actively intervene in the affairs of the South American republics whenever those affairs assume a threatening attitude toward the commercial or political well being of the rest of the world. In order to attain anything like commercial stability a guarantee is needed that there will be a cessation of the interminable and meaningless revolutions that have beset these republics and endangered the foreign interests that are involved in them. This guarantee can only come from such action of the United States as we have just witnessed in Panama—action from which we are justified in concluding that sooner or later these lesser republics will come under a sort of American protectorate—or at least some modus vivendi that will assure the intervention of the United States as a peace-maker whenever there is danger of these distressing revolutionary uprisings.

"The intervention of the United States on the isthmus today, taking the larger view that is naturally suggested by so important an action, means that in the future, and for all time to come, the United States will exercise what will virtually amount to a sovereignty in Central and South America. That may not be the exact word to use as applied to the American republic, nor may the fact itself be, as yet, the recognized formal policy of the government at Washington. Events, however, are the arguments that shape political theories and constitutions, and if the events on the isthmus of Panama during the past month do not find their excuse in existing precedents and precedents, doubtless the scope of the latter will be enlarged to meet the new conditions. It is not unlikely in this direction, for instance, that a revised interpretation of the Monroe doctrine will be put forth, giving that famous pronouncement a force and definiteness that it has at times lacked before.

"But, however, the American people may ultimately incorporate the policy to be inferred from their action on the Panama isthmus, an American protectorate over South America of some actual positive kind can no longer be doubted. It comes in the line of destiny, hailed with delight by all foreigners, and especially by the English speaking people in this part of the world, and gives the assurance that the great wealth and inexhaustible resources of this hitherto sealed continent will at last meet their full development."

There are two sides to the Dowie controversy. The self-styled "Elijah" may be getting worse treatment than he deserves and all that, but the fact remains that it is about time to open the eyes of his ignorant and self-sacrificing followers. Certainly they allowed themselves to be gulled, but are such people to be pitied or censured for their ignorance? Dowie is reputed to be rich. It is said he has amassed fully seven million dollars and if he has he can easily pay his debts and thus afford his deluded followers example as well as precept for a part of their religion. There is nothing to show that those who have requested themselves to work and live according to the Dowie dictates are any better off socially, financially or morally, than before, but there is every evidence that they have contributed liberally and to their own detriment, to the so-called prophet's klugly prosperity. If he is a fake, the sooner it is proven to his victims and the world at large, the better will it be for the people, especially those credulous people who are victimized by every mountebank who can excite their fancy.

The Democratic press will fall as utterly to create any dissension among Republicans as it has to promote harmony among the Democrats. President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna are good friends, and will remain so. They are above the petty animosities of the class of men who lead the Democratic hosts, and while they may differ in their views on some things, they are unanimous in their loyalty to the Republican party, and will remain loyal to it. If they were the kind of men to fall out over a difference of opinion, they would still have more regard for the welfare of their party and the great principles it represents, than to jeopardize its success by becoming unfriendly now.

Paducah has for the past two or three Sundays been "dry" enough to suit anyone. Everybody seems to be satisfied except those saloon men who supported the administration on account of the "pledges" they are supposed to have received. One thing has been clearly demonstrated, and that is that the saloons can be closed by the police when the higher powers order it.

A novel and effective remedy to rid St. Joseph, Mo., of the tramp nuisance has been adopted by the police judge. The hoboes instead of being put to work, are sentenced to a cold bath once a day for a week and if they are not then ready to migrate they will have the dose doubled. Only one man has been treated thus far and there have been no tramps about since.

Speculation seems to be the craze. The man who makes a few millions in cotton and the fortunate plunger who cleans up a quarter of a million in one day on wheat, are lost sight of for a moment while the man who recently sold an ear for $5,000 attempts to play bear with the ear market and get a new ear for $1,000.

The mayor says he doesn't know where the reporters get their "tips." The reporters will readily acquit the mayor of the charge of giving them tips. The mayor never makes up his mind until he has to and then he seems to fear he ought to change it.

A game of hide and seek is going on at Louisville between the people and slot machines. Judging from appearances the politicians own the saloons, the slot machines and the city, and well the police know their business.

CAPT. CRUMBAUGH BACK.

WELL KNOWN NEWSPAPER MAN RETURNS TO PADUCAH AGAIN.

Capt. E. W. Crumbaugh, who was at Ashland, Ky., for several years and recently lost everything he had by fire, returned to Paducah last evening, and may remain here. Capt. Crumbaugh has been working at Louisville for the past month and hopes to locate in Paducah, which he says is the best city in the state, after all.

Smallpox Statistics.
Smallpox in the United States, as officially reported from December 28, 1901, to March 7, 1902, amounted to 20,044 cases with 615 deaths. The total for the corresponding period in 1902 was 7,637 cases and 104 deaths.

A SURE TEST

OF WHETHER COFFEE REALLY HURTS OR NOT.

Some folks drink coffee and suffer day after day but console themselves by saying "I don't believe it hurts me or at any rate I am not sure that it does."

"The sensible thing to do is to make sure by leaving off coffee and using Postum for a week or so. The trial is pleasant and you may learn something worth more than money to you in the way of health and strength."

An intelligent woman who valued her health and comfort made sure.
She says: "I have proved positively that when I used coffee I had kidney and bladder trouble, palpitation of the heart, stomach trouble, insomnia and my complexion was sallow and muddy, but I got rid of all these troubles when I quit coffee and took on Postum Food coffee. All my troubles disappeared quickly, almost as if by magic, and in their place I became strong and well."

"I soon learned to like Postum as well as I ever liked coffee and I would not exchange my delicious cup of Postum for coffee and sickness for anything in the world." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Body Shipped Today to Marion for Burial—Other Deaths.

Mr. Louis Cook, of No. 809 South
Fourth street, died last night about 11 o'clock of paralysis, after a short illness and the body was shipped to Marion, Crittenden county, Ky., today at noon for burial.

The deceased was well known here and had made many friends and acquaintances during the one year's residence in Paducah, who will regret very much to learn of his death. He was 79 years of age and was born in Pittsburg, Pa., where he lived until 30 years of age. At that age he came to Kentucky and settled near Marion where he operated mining interest for many years, in fact until he came to Paducah with his son, Mr. C. L. Cook, the photographer, one year ago.

He leaves besides a wife four children, Messrs. Harry Cook and C. L.
Cook and Misses Lilly and Pearl Cook.
The family, except Mrs. Cook, left at ness and saddle maker and leaves a wife and four children. Mr. Miles also received the sad news that his

Miles, during his six years' residence in Paducah, has lost a near relative every twelve months.

William Baker, aged 11, died early this morning on a shanty boat near the Kentucky Iron furnace, of bowel trouble. The burial took place this afternoon at Oak Grove.

Alice Halpin, aged one year, died

FINE APPROPRIATION

A TOTAL OF $31,410 WILL BE NEEDED NEXT YEAR.

The question of enlarging the local fire department will probably not come up at the meeting of the council tonight. In fact, it is announced by prominent city officials that nothing will be done until the new boards are installed in January, and the question of making the annual appropriations for next year come up. Nothing can be done out of this year's levy, as no money is on hand.

It is estimated that the improvements desired will make the appropriation for the fire department $31,410. It has been $21,000.

The money will be apportioned as follows, should the appropriation be made as above: One chief and four captains, $3,880; 19 stationmen, $10,400; feed and shoeing 15 head of horses, $1,000; wear and tear on apparatus, $300; 3,000 feet of hose, $1,080; four head of horses, $600; storage battery and switchboard, $1,000; five new fire alarm boxes, $1,000; two new sets of harness, $150; two new stations, complete, $7,000; one new chemical and hose wagon, $2,600; one-half dozen nozzles, $60; lights for four houses, $480; coal, $240. Total, $31,410.

TO CHANGE NAME

THERE ARE TWO MOUNDS, ILL.,
AT PRESENT.

There is a likelihood of a change in the names of Mounds and Beechwood, Ill., mounds in the name most familiar in Paducah and Beechwood is the name of the postoffice. In many cases this results in the miscarriage of mail as there is another "Mound" in Brown county and unless the county is given so the mail agents can place it the mail addressed goes to the Brown county office. It is not probable that the postal authorities will consent to abolish the Brown county office in favor of a newer office of the same name so if any change is made it will be up to the Illinois Central people and the citizens of Mounds-Beechwood to arrange it.

Inspectors G. M. Green and J. B. Harris, of Nashville, are in the city today.

"How much?"
"Why, he only asked 'em for seven hundred the hull outfit, and would give 'em two years, but they bucked—wouldn't look at it."

"Were you there, Bill? What did you do?"

"Oh," said Bill modestly, "I didn't do much. Gave 'em a little bluff."

"Did they take you, Bill?"

"Well, I reckon they did. The master, here, put it down."

Whereupon I read the terms of Bill's bluff.

There was a chorus of very hearty approvals of Bill's course in "not tuckin' any water" from that variously characterized "outfit." But the responsibility of the situation began to dawn upon them when some one asked:

"How are you going about it, Bill?"

"Well," drawled Bill, with a touch of sarcasm in his voice, "there's that pinto—

"Pinto be blanked!" said young Bill.

"Say, boys, is that little girl going to lose that one pony of hers to help out her friend the pilot? Good fellow, too, he is! We know he's the right sort."

Chorus of "Not by a long sight! Not much! We'll put up the stuff! Pinto!"

"Then," went on Bill even more slowly, "there's the pilot; he's got for to ante up a month's pay; 'tain't much, of course—twenty-eight a month and grub himself. He might make it two," he added thoughtfully. But Bill's proposal was scorned with contemptuous groans.

"Twenty-eight a month and grub himself of course ain't much for a man to have money out of to educate himself," Bill continued, as if thinking aloud, "Of course he's got his mother at home, but she can't make much more than her own livin', but she might help him some."

This was altogether too much for the crowd. They consigned Bill and his plans to unutterable depths of woe.

"Of course," Bill explained, "it's just as you boys feel about it. Maybe I was, bel'n' hot, a little swift in givin' 'em the bluff."

"Not much, you wasn't! We'll see you out! That's the talk! There's between twenty and thirty of us here!"

"I should be glad to contribute thirty or forty if need be," said the Duke, who was standing not far off, "to assist in the building of a church. It would be a good thing, and I think the parson should be encouraged. He's the right sort."

"I'll cover your thirty," said young Bill; and so it went from one to another in tens and fiftens and twenties, till within half an hour I had entered $350 in my book, with Ashley yet to hear from, which meant fifty more. It was Bill's hour of triumph.

"Boys," he said, with solemn emphasis, "ye're all white. But that little pale faced gel, that's what I'm thinkin' on. Won't she open them big eyes of hers! I cherish the opinion that this 'll tickle her some."

CHAPTER XVII.

HOW THE PINTO SOLD.

THE glow of victorious feeling following the performance of their generous act prepared the men for a keener enjoyment than usual of a night's sport. They had just begun to dispose themselves in groups about the fire for poker and other games when Bill rode up into the light and with him a stranger on Gwyn's beautiful pinto pony.

Bill was evidently half drunk, and, as he swung himself off his bronco, he saluted the company with a wave of the hand and hoped he saw them "klekin'."

Bill, looking curiously at Bill, went up to the pinto, and, taking him by the head, led him up into the light, saying:

"See here, boys, there's that pinto of mine I was tellin' you about. No flies on him, eh?"

"Hold on there! Excuse me," said the stranger, "this here horse belongs to me, if paid down money means anything in this country."

"The country's all right," said Bill in an ominously quiet voice, "but this here pinto's another transaction, I reckon."

"The horse is mine, I say, and what's more, I'm goin' to hold him," said the stranger in a loud voice.

The men began to crowd around with faces growing hard. It was dangerous in that country to play fast and loose with horses.

"Look a-hyar, mates," said the stranger, with a Yankee drawl, "I ain't no horse thief, and if I hadn't bought this horse reg'lar and paid down good money then it ain't mine; if I have, it is. That's fair, ain't it?"

At this Bill pulled himself together and in a half drunken tone declared that the stranger was all right and that he had bought the horse fair and square, and "there's your dust," said Bill, handing a roll to Bill. But with a quick movement Bill caught the stranger by the leg, and before a word could be said he was lying flat on the ground.

"You git off that pony," said Bill, "till this thing is settled."

There was something so terrible in Bill's manner that the man contented himself with blustering and swearing, while Bill, turning to Bill, said:

"Did you sell this pinto to him?"

Bill was able to acknowledge that, being offered a good price and knowing that his partner was always ready for a deal, he had transferred the pinto to the stranger for $40.

Bill was in distress, deep and poignant. "Tain't the horse, but the little gel," he explained; but his partner's bargain was his, and wrathful as he was he refused to attempt to break the bargain.

At this moment the Hon. Fred, noting the unusual excitement about the fire, came up, followed at a little distance by his wife and the Duke.

"Perhaps he'll sell," he suggested.

"No," said Bill sullenly, "he's a mean cuss."

"I know him," said the Hon. Fred. "Let me try him." But the stranger declared the pinto suited him down to the ground and he wouldn't take twice his money for him.

"Why," he protested, "that there's what I call an unusual horse, and down in Montana for a lady he'd fetch up to a hundred and fifty dollars." In vain they bargained and bargained. The man was immovable. Eighty dollars he wouldn't look at; a hundred hardly made him hesitate. At this point Lady Charlotte came down into the light and stood by her husband, who explained the circumstances to her. She had already heard Bill's description of the horse's accident and of her part in the church building scheme. There was silence for a few moments as she stood looking at the beautiful pony.

"What a shame the poor child should have to part with the dear little creature!" she said in a low tone to her husband. Then, turning to the stranger, she said in clear, sweet tones:

"What do you ask for him?" He hesitated and then said, lifting his hat awkwardly in salute, "I was just remarkin' how that pinto would fetch $150 down into Montana; but, seein' as a lady is inquirin', I'll put him down to $125."

"Too much," she said promptly; "far too much, is it not, Bill?"

"Well," drawled Bill, "if 'twere a fellow as was used to ladies he'd offer you the pinto, but he's too pizen mean even to come down to the even hundred."

The Yankee took him up quickly. "Ward, if I were so blanked—pardon, madam," taking off his hat—"used to ladies as some folks would like to think themselves, I'd buy that there pinto and make a present of it to this here lady as stands before me." Bill twisted uneasily.

"But I ain't goin' to be mean. I'll put that pinto in for the even money for the lady if any man cares to put up the stuff."

"Well, my dear," said the Hon. Fred, with a bow, "we cannot well let that gage lie." She turned and smiled at him, and the pinto was transferred to the Ashley stables, to Bill's outspoken delight, who declared he couldn't have faced the music "if that there pinto had gone across the line." I confess, however, I was somewhat surprised at the ease with which Bill escaped his wrath, and my surprise was in no way lessened when I saw later in the evening the two partners with the stranger taking a quiet drink out of the same bottle with evident mutual admiration and delight.

"You're an A1 corker, you are! I'll be blanked if you ain't a bird—a singin' bird, a reg'lar canary." I heard Bill say to Bill.

But Bill's only reply was a long, slow wink which passed into a frown as he caught my eye. My suspicion was aroused that the sale of the pinto might bear investigation, and this suspicion was deepened when Gwyn next week gave me a rapturous account of how splendidly Bill had disposed of the pinto, showing me bills for $150. To my look of amazement Gwyn replied:

"You see, he must have got them bidding against each other, and besides, Bill says pintos are going up."

He was lying flat on the ground, plained the circumstances to her. She had already heard Bill's description of the horse's accident and of her part in the church building scheme. There was silence for a few moments as she stood looking at the beautiful pony.

"What a shame the poor child should have to part with the dear little creature!" she said in a low tone to her husband. Then, turning to the stranger, she said in clear, sweet tones:

"What do you ask for him?" He hesitated and then said, lifting his hat awkwardly in salute, "I was just remarkin' how that pinto would fetch $150 down into Montana; but, seein' as a lady is inquirin', I'll put him down to $125."

"Too much," she said promptly; "far too much, is it not, Bill?"

"Well," drawled Bill, "if 'twere a fellow as was used to ladies he'd offer you the pinto, but he's too pizen mean even to come down to the even hundred."

The Yankee took him up quickly. "Ward, if I were so blanked—pardon, madam," taking off his hat—"used to ladies as some folks would like to think themselves, I'd buy that there pinto and make a present of it to this here lady as stands before me." Bill twisted uneasily.

"But I ain't goin' to be mean. I'll put that pinto in for the even money for the lady if any man cares to put up the stuff."

"Well, my dear," said the Hon. Fred, with a bow, "we cannot well let that gage lie." She turned and smiled at him, and the pinto was transferred to the Ashley stables, to Bill's outspoken delight, who declared he couldn't have faced the music "if that there pinto had gone across the line." I confess, however, I was somewhat surprised at the ease with which Bill escaped his wrath, and my surprise was in no way lessened when I saw later in the evening the two partners with the stranger taking a quiet drink out of the same bottle with evident mutual admiration and delight.

"You're an A1 corker, you are! I'll be blanked if you ain't a bird—a singin' bird, a reg'lar canary." I heard Bill say to Bill.

But Bill's only reply was a long, slow wink which passed into a frown as he caught my eye. My suspicion was aroused that the sale of the pinto might bear investigation, and this suspicion was deepened when Gwyn next week gave me a rapturous account of how splendidly Bill had disposed of the pinto, showing me bills for $150. To my look of amazement Gwyn replied:

"You see, he must have got them bidding against each other, and besides, Bill says pintos are going up."

Theatrical Notes.

Will O. Murphey, the author of "Why Women Sin," has launched a companion play to his much discussed drama entitled "If Women Were Men," which under the management of M. W. Taylor Amusement company will shortly be seen for the first time in this city. It is given out quietly that this is really a dramatization of the celebrated "violet bride" divorce case, which had society in the north and south by the ears about three years ago. There is a scene in the bridal apartments of a fashionable New York hotel which comes very close to being a fac simile of the incident that was responsible for the divorce of the "violet bride" by her husband of one day. There is no problem attached to "If Women Were Men," but it does show what a beautiful southern girl did when she was confronted with a situation that required the strength and fortitude of a man in order to secure the object of her love. It takes four acts and six scenes to unfold this thrilling plot, in which there are eighteen characters, all of whom contribute to its realism. Two of the most sensational scenes outside of the violet incident, are the sword duel between two men on a roof garden in New York city, in which one is forced off the roof, and the death of the disturber of domestic bliss, by a bolt of lightning from the sky.

Lewis Morrison and an excellent company pleased two large audiences at the Kentucky Saturday in a matinee and evening performance. Mr. Morrison though now quite old, has lost none of the force and fire of youth in the interpretation of the difficult role of Mephisto in which he has made his reputation, as ranking first among all actors. His magnetism fascinating his audience, and the attractiveness and repellant, which he throw into the character of the spirit of evil, shows the true artistic touch which his age has not taken from him. The support was good and the scenery and stage settings very effective.

"The Wizard of Oz," the new extravaganza which will be seen at The Kentucky Friday night is said to disclose a succession of scenes that are veritable panoramas of natural beauty. In the first act a terrific cyclone disrupts a Kansas farm in full view of the audience, carrying away the ancestral homestead of little Dorothy, the heroine, transporting her on the wings of the wind to the realm of Oz which is of course another name for fairyland. This novel stage effect is declared to be a marvel of scenic and mechanical stage art. Seats go on sale Thursday 10 a. m. Curtain positively up at 8 sharp.

Laughter will presently hold both his sides and great tears will flow down his fat and merry cheeks, since the Black Patti troubadours are to appear at The Kentucky today, matinee and night. The Black Patti herself will appear in a new kaleidoscope and a beautiful vocal creation called "A Festival of Operatic Melody." Her managers have surrounded her with a great aggregation of mirth-provoking chocolate-colored singers, dancers and merry Andrews. The balcony reserved for colored people tonight.

"A Royal Slave," which is recognized as one of the very best attractions on the road will be seen at The Kentucky Wednesday night. The play which deals with life in Old Mexico is out of the ordinary run of melodramas, and gives the scenic artist wonderful scope for some very elaborate scenic effects. This will be one of the very best attractions that Manager English will offer this season and he is looking forward to a well filled house.

No arrangements have yet been made to run the summer theater here next summer. Manager James E. English gave up the lease last summer, and the greater part of the summer there was no show. It is probable that the street car company will take up the park matter early in January and arrange to open the theater during the summer.

The "Two Little Waifs" company, which plays here next Saturday, will remain here ten days following, laying off during the holidays. Many of the best companies on the road always lay up during the holidays and during holy week. The Two Little Waifs company is one of the best of the Lincoln J. Carter troups.

Manager James E. English, of the Kentucky theater, has completed arrangements to spend next summer with his family at Ashbury park, N. J. He will leave June 1. The Kentucky will be closed during the summer.

The "Black Patti Troubadours," considered the best show of its kind on the road, and which made quite a hit here last season, is here today, having arrived on its special car. A large matinee crowd is at the Kentucky and the advance sale for tonight is large.

Miss Blanch Walsh, who was booked into the Kentucky for January 28th in "Resurrection" has cancelled, having been called into New York to prepare for a new play.

Sam T. Jack's Own Burlesque company will be the offering at The Kentucky Thursday night.

MAY BE FATAL

Mr. John Segenfelder Stricken With Paralysis.

His Left Side Paralyzed—One of Paducah's Oldest Citizens.

Mr. John Segenfelder, one of Paducah's oldest and best known citizens, was stricken with paralysis yesterday morning about 10 o'clock at his room at the Palmer house, and as a result his left side is paralyzed. Mr. Segenfelder, or "Uncle John," as he is familiarly known, had not arisen yesterday when the attack came, but he rallied some and is today thought to be slightly better. He is conscious, and does not seem to be in any immediate danger, but it is feared that on account of his advanced age, 78, and his feebleness, he will never get out again, even should his illness not prove fatal.

Mr. Segenfelder was for years one of the most prominent members of the city council, and has lived here all his life. For the past several years he has occupied apartments at the Palmer house.

His daughter, Mrs. Harry G. Tandy, of Frankfort, was telegraphed last night and is now at his bedside.

Judge James Campbell left at noon for Frankfort where he will argue the case of the state against the Ayer & Lord The company.

The auditor's agent is trying to compel the tie company to pay a back tax on their boats, which are already taxed in the state of Illinois. The case was won by the company in the county court here and again in the circuit court, and is now in the court of appeals where Judge Campbell will again try to win a victory for the tie company.

MARSHAL McCULLUM, OF KUTAWA, MAY ORGANIZE MINING COMPANY.

Marshal Wm. McCullum, of Kutawa, returned home today at noon after a business trip to the city. Several months ago Marshal McCullum discovered a rich mineral deposit near Kutawa and sent specimens of the mineral to different experts in the county and they pronounced it very good. He will investigate further and if possible start a company and go into the mining business. He had been in Paducah exhibiting samples of his mineral discovery to capitalists here who are interested in mining.
